

CALL TO ARTISTS

Our Backyard: Artists Consider the Environment

Climate Change, Evolution, Global Warming, Fracking, and Alternative Energy are all issues that dominate the news and our daily life. As an artist how do you respond? What's your take?

This call is for an exhibition at Roos Arts in Rosendale scheduled for July 13 - August 17, 2013. We invite artists who are interested in addressing the environment in their work. How do you give visual form to your environmental concerns? Any media, from two dimensional to video to performance will be considered. We also welcome works that actively engages with the viewer. This show will be up during the Rosendale Street Festival that has an average attendance of 10,000 and as such is great opportunity for exposure or pop up performance.

Jurors: Tatana Kellner, Women's Studio Workshop
Heige Kim, Roos Arts

Deadline: April 1, 2013

Exhibition Dates: July 13 - August 17, 2013

Submission Guidelines:

For artwork: Please email 5 jpeg images of finished artwork (no larger than 1000 dpi in any dimension) including details - title, year, medium, dimensions. If you are sending a proposal for an installation, action or work which is in progress, please send no more than two paragraph description of what you plan on making for the show.

For performances: Please describe the performance/action you'd like to present. This show will be up during the Rosendale Street Festival and we expect a greater number of audience. It is also a great opportunity for a performance during the festival in July. Please note that Roos Arts capacity of audience is 50.

Send all submissions via email to: our.backyard@roosarts.com

Please include on the subject line: Our Backyard Submission/Proposal. Please include on top of your submission/proposal, your name, contact info (phone + email), website address and or Facebook page if available.

Roos Arts

449 Main Street, Rosendale, New York 12472